IIDC - SANTO DOMINGO & SOSUA, DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

ABOUT THE SCHOOL AND THE CITY

IIDC - Instituto Intercultural del Caribe specializes in teaching Spanish to travelers who desire to combine a language learning experience with an exciting, intercultural experience in the Dominican Republic. IIDC is an educational division of Casa Goethe, a German owned and managed private institute originally organized to facilitate intercultural exchange between the German and Dominican cultures.

The surroundings of the schools, with their cafeterias, gardens, and terraces, are ideal places to become acquainted with new friends and plan activities. It is IIDC's purpose to facilitate Intercultural Exchange between foreign students and Dominican students who study English and German at IIDC. All of IIDC's teachers are native speakers and widely experienced in the field of teaching Spanish as a foreign language.

The ancient Caribbean seaport of Santo Domingo, founded in August 1496, was the first capital of the new territories discovered by Christopher Columbus. In recognition of the city's role in the Spanish colonization period, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) proclaimed Santo Domingo cultural heritage of the New World.

The beach town of Sosúa, located on the North coast just east of Puerto Plata, was originally settled by 600 Jewish refugees in the early 1940's. Although many of them left after World War II ended, some stayed and raised families in Sosúa. Their presence is noticeable in street names and in the synagogue located on Calle Alejo Martínez. Sosúa is an easygoing town with open air bars, restaurants, and a white sand beach.

ABOUT THE PROGRAM

Personalized and specifically designed teaching materials supported by audiovisual media are used to aid students in Spanish language improvement and development. Groups never exceed 5 students per class. In all programs, students are placed in appropriate levels by a written entrance exam. IIDC offers 4 levels: beginner, post beginner, intermediate, and advanced.

Standard Course Group 20 hours per week. 4 hours of morning classes are given daily Monday - Friday in a group setting. If only one student is registered for a level, the student will receive 15 hours of Tutor.

Intensive Course Group 30 hours per week. Six hours of classes are given daily Monday - Friday in a group setting, with the two afternoon hours focusing on conversation, Dominican geography and specialized vocabulary. If only one student is registered for a level, the student will receive 24 hours of Tutor.

Standard Individual Course Tutor 20 hours per week. Four hours of classes are given daily Monday - Friday in a one-on-one setting. The course is designed for students who wish to concentrate on specific language needs.

Intensive Individual Course Tutor 30 hours per week. Six hours of classes are given daily Monday - Friday in a one-on-one setting. The course is designed for those students who wish to concentrate on specific language needs at an intensive pace.
